They paused beneath her pane: I thought they'd sing "My Lady's Bower," Or some romantic strain. I listened with intense desire-A dreamy costasy! Alas! into the air they fire "Ta-ra-ra Boom-der-ee/"

Thought I, they will not tarry long, For all songs have an end; I'll hear their voices in a song Of greater sweetness blend; I gazed out on the silv'ry light, But, oh! 'twas not to be!
They blazed away with all their might: "Ta-ra-ra Boom-der-ee !"

When will this end? I shud'ring thought Some new song soon I'll hear; I did not know each one had brought A lively load of beer. I did not think the song was famed For verses forty three. Oh, horror! All again exclaimed: "Ta-ra-ra Boom-der-ee!"

I tossed upon my couch, I growled, My teeth I gnashed in vain! I stamped, I roared, I wept, I howled— No slumber could I gain! I'd like to put it to a vote: Severe enough for him who wrote "Ta-ra-ra Boom-der-ee?" EUNICE MONROE

THE PIRATE OFF PEAJACKET HEAD. A LOVE YARN OF THE YACHTING SEASON

SUGGESTED BY "THE TRIP TO CHINA" OPERA, AND WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY H. L. WILLIAMS.

Peajacket Head is a New Jerseian marine resort; pleasure seekers flock thither in thousands-likewise mosquitoes, three card men, eligible sight vendors, hackmen and other blood suckers. Old Tollmash, the leading landholder, we might say, sandholder, says its booming time has come. He wants to double here the fortune he made in Division Street at "The Busy Beehive," by selling fallals and thingumles to the fair sex, and notably by inventing the Ladies' Half Dime Packet. Put in the slot a nickel and take out a parcel of hairpins, needles ready threaded with black and white, pins assorted, thimbles, tape, shoe and staylace, in short, all the modern belle wants "in a hurry when she does want them" in these days of the patent ready ripper machine made garments.

Tollmash says he invented this; nonsense, the idea would never have come into masculine brain! It was his daughter, Mavis, who imagined and realised it all. She was, on its materialization, the brightest catch at Peajacket, where her papa had retired on being compelled to take over some property there held under a mortgage. It was pay the State taxes or step out! He thought he had stepped in for a good thing, so near the metropolis.

As for Mavis, she saw herself the centre of all the society at that Summer resort, and she was more bright eyed than ever. She was bound to be bright eyes as she had at least two sparks in her eyes!

Not that one of these sparks was over brilliant; it was Vandewasser Stubton. Stubton Sr.—you have seen his portrait in all the papers—was the pest of the Western Reserve and the Illinois Bottom with a mean whiskey and hornbeam ague decoction, one stage worse in its pangs than the rattler's sting, but the old settlers believed in it, and he laid up a pile.

The other cavalier of Miss Tollmash was not so rich as Stubby, but he was more agreeable, and the real Irish English peer, Lord Carragreen, who land-ed him here on his homeward cruise from the Florida Keys to the Scotch Locks, lost when he forgot to call for him.

Fremont Novem was tall, straight, nicely sunburned with the Southern sun; his black eyes were piercers, his preminence in athletic pastimes manifest, and he took root in Peajacket like a weed, all in a day.

This was to the sore regret of Stubton, whose money had carried things before him; besides, in his pursuit of Mavis, the Mirthsome, he had the shoulder patting of her father. Tollmash adored money above all things, and he expected to get old Stub into backing him in making the town a buzzer among seaside retreats.

But towards the close of the season a check was given to flirtations. Tremendous excitement thrille the coast by the hint from the Senators at Washing ton that an immense amount of Samuel's cash would be spent on fortifying the approaches south ward to New York. To ascertain just where towers should be ranged along the deep, and torpedoes broadcast, to say nothing of gunboat patrols, a sham attack was purposed. Our navy was to rep-resent the combined fleets of the Old World, making up by activity by being in two places at once for he paucity of numbers.

The local press echoed the city papers, and stirred up the spirits of our fathers, while the pulpit thundered that the prosperity of the country was at stake when a Minotaur, under the flag of St. George, might an mor off Pealacket, and toss an eighty tor shell into the meeting house, eight miles inward, and, perhaps, demolish the deacon's Fristan town bull. Deacon Scaddle, indeed, dug up the old '76 arronade, which went out on a privateer in those days, and had it mounted on the beach.

Old Pop Flintstone, the lifeboat captain, surf saver, swimming professor and all that, who was engaged as the pilot to the Defenders, strutted round, with an exaggerated limp, supposed to be caused by a wound under Farragut in running past New Orleans. He carried—nay, he staggered under a load of maps, charts, theodolites, and other nautivague idea that real war was at the back of this mock fighting, and that he would be captured. There was a rumor among old fogles, old maids and old folks, altogether, that Jack Ashore over-acted his part, mauled chance antagonists, and kissed pretty maids as in a hostile land. Stubton took in earnest a hint from Noxem that the blacksmith's apron would, doubled up, under his blazer, ward off the flat of a cutlass, *nd presented the appearance of an amateur going to "Do Dicky the Hunchback."

During the eventral days, strange sail and stranger smokes streaked the horizon, but the pre-parations of Peajacket to repel invaders must have daunted the enemy; when he came—and he did the bell musted, the deck whitened so that she could be navigated in the dark. All fitted for just such a midnight foray, like old Paul Jones', in short, the capture of the richest man in Peajacket, the emblem of a hostage.

The Quahog might have been held up as a model for "The Black Buccaneer" of the dime lie-braries, Whether he thought that they drank ber-lud, and bit into biscuit smeared with gunpowder, or whether nausea seized him for their own, Tollmash snarled: "Eat? I'll see you farther first—and starve!" Yet, his daughter, who came up and was unaffected by the breeze and the rolling, urged him to be "re-

he had his doubts, the seamen darting such ferocious looks at him.
"Oh, does he not manage this crank craft well?

VOLUME XL.-No. 32. Price 10 Cents.

At this, a pair of rugged paws descended on their shoulders, and a grim face appeared over the edge of the boat, on a level with their heads. It was the boatswain.

"Why, blank my eyes, this here is muticy," roared he; "incitement to rebel aboard one of Uncle Sam's warships, by all that is outdashus! Hoy, corporal of the marines, just put this brace of traitorious gents atween two sogers and master at arms, git the bilboes ready whiles I downs and tells the cap'n of this blank monstracious misconduck!' Shaking his fist at the two, whom the marines seized, he rolled away.

The captain must have approved of the denunciation, for, with that alacrity the nautical always show when they can tease landsmen, they rigged up a kind of court room in part of the waist, with table, chairs for the court, and so on, which could not have been more awful if Jack had taken lessons of a stage manager expert in "Black Eyed Susan" trial acenes; and Tollmash and Stubton blinked to see the drawn sword on the table before the judge, while the draped flag formed the background, with a flashing gilded eagle in its folds.

At this nearness all recognized Noxem as the at this nearness as recognized Nozem as the idler who had haunted Peajacket. In a very harsh voice he read from a big book, cross of a gazetteer and a Webster uncondensed, dire penalties against all who incite revolution at sea. Miss Tollmash, though evidently flinching before this dread array, played the Portia at the trial, but her argument that a mock execution was the logical sequel to a sham trial in a Bunkum war, was met by the rejoinder that this was a real ship and that the millionaire's project to usurp the command was a real offence.

"Nevertheless," said Captain Noxem, black as the classical Nox, "the court admits a certain force in your advocate's remonstrance. Instead of being suspended to the yardarm by a rope each, attached round the neck in the usual manner, the loop shall be suspended round your chest under the armpits."

This decision was cheered, as every decision of a man of war autocrat is halled. In a trice, the two gentlemen, limp as eels, were stood upon the gun-wales, each on a slush bucket inverted, the least substantial footing in the world, while a rope with the easiest running slip knot ever made adorned the bared throats of the rich man and his projected son in law.

Their arms pinioned, they were prettily posed, but so delicately, not to say ticklishly, that neither dared sneeze in the fresh breeze, and their balancing would be a credit to a professional globe ascen-There the pair dangled like giant bables in jumpers, the laughing stock for the crew, which gathered in a half circle round them.

Miss Tolimash had to retire from the harrowing spectacle—to hide her emotion—perhaps mirthful, but she had hardly gone two steps before she was iterally confronted by Stubton. Swinging at the end of his life line, with a convulsed face and spasmodic kicks, as in vain he tried to recover the bucket on the gunwale, he looked ismentable.

The mast was between him and Mr. T., while a wind sail, to convey ventilation into the engine room, hid Miss Mavis from her father.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Vandewasser, "he says I was trying to kick him off his pail when I simply tumbled off mine. I say, can't you help me? This cord cuts my arms like anything. Please be a pitying angel!

"If anyone is to be pitied, it is I," returned she, dolefully. "What do you think? this dreadful captain, of this more dreadful ship, which I fear is not a Government vessel at all—with his infernal craft, I may say, on this infernal craft—lay it down as his

"I wish I could lay down in sultry pomatum," sighed Stubton.

"That I shall be his bride. Try to imagine a girl, plously brought up, a pirate's bride! Don't shake your head, Mr. Stabton." "It's the ship gave me the shake. Do you want me to give you the shake, too?"

"I do not expect that of one so bold and brave; exchange that hideous loop to your neck, and for the matrimonial halter to be transferred to mine -"Stop, stop, I do not know so much about that Here, tell the captain I want to be out of it."

At this point, Tollmash, swinging round his cir-cle, came down on the cowardly speaker like a giant bataman's club, and sent Stubton sky high. Mavis fled, for the two began swinging agains other, and bounding away like two pith balls in an electrical display.

"Help!" shricked Tollmash, "will nobody fend off this human pendulum? this idiot who?'-bang! They collided once more, and were left gasping for sec-end wind. "A thousand dollars to whoever will cut me loose! Turn me loose for—Lord, he's coming again at my breadbasket! Take him away, or me off, and I will walk up to the captain's office and set

"But to save your neck, the captain insists on having my hand," interposed Mavis.

"He don't deserve it, but he is a trifle preferable to this inhuman jumping jack—consarn him, here he hovers over me—he will plump in on me again he can take you if they will take him.'

"It is a bargain, pappy "
"I am reduced to pappy myself," groaned Toll mash, while they detached him and the other as they whacked together for the last time, and they were taken to the cabin to be resuscitated by the

Two days later Lord Carragreen's yacht, casting off all semblance to the warlike Quahog, with the resumption by Nozem of the position of a simple guest, in the same way as Lord C. shifted from the boatswain's jacket to the yachtman's coat, beat into Pealacket inlet. After coming to an anchor she burnt portfires, and invitations to a surprise party and ball in honor of the engagement of Miss Toll-mash and Fremont Noxem were sent ashore by the score on the boat conveying the bride and her father. Stubby went over to another point in a local skirf, arraid to face the music, and Peajacket saw him no more. He read in the papers that Tollmash had confirmed his promise, and the marriage of French and Mavis soon after showed him that the knaval

"A coup de Spanish main!" said Miss Tollmash about the only one who could joke-the prisoners ad such a night of it! It can be a lively sea, the Atlantic, off Jersey, ever before the Fall blusters. What a transition from the festive cottage card room to the little steam gun ruiser's cramped cabin, in which you could no swing a stump tailed kitten, but in which was sacked like all the billiard balls in one net, Tollmash and Stubton, the marriageable young lady and her maid, with a little cubby room to retire into.

Pale and trembling, Stubton tottered up to the deck. A Goliath in blue had growled: "We'll ha" to fumygate ye if you do not tumble up sharp;" to "the gents both." And they literally tumbled up. Tollmash followed his favorite, bewildered to stand -feebly-where money ceased to rule-the waves, or persons around. He grumbled, vowed that the White House should hear of this outrage, and yet he was daunted by the martial and stric everything, and the wooden aspect of the living au-tomata who worked the ship. The Quahog looked very unlike the man of war he had been aboard at Newport, trimmed and tricked out for a ball; she was set for carnage. No gimcracks; the glittering metal was tarnished with pitch; the fair manilla cordage was stained dark; the carvas was tanned, sisted. "Come, it is only the fortune of war. It is done so well—it is like a page out of Treasure Island.' In a few days peace will be proclaimed,' she continued, entering into the spirit of the fiction like all around her, "and we shall just have had s quite so awfully jolly improvised cruise. Why, Dr. Polhemus advised you to have a blow on the rea ocean, and you never would go off soundings unless perforce. In pitching on you," she added, with merry twinkling, "they have added five years to

No, Stubton was caught by the rail and set on his feet by a kind mariner.

"Bless my vision" cried Tollmash; "look, May, on that bridge! Can that be the boss—the commander here ? "Why, no, that is Mr. Noxem," cried the girl.

"Silence—no talking to the skipper when he is on the bridge," interrupted a black bearded man with a gruff voice, who stopped chirping on a silver bird whistle dangling round his bull neck. "He is the captain, papa," said Mavis, ruefully, for Captain Noxem were the impermeable air of a veteran sea dog, to hall whom would be seven years on a desert island and to slap on the back, swinging at the yard arm. "Dear, dear, I thought it was a hum; that he was left over from the yas British peer. You may depend upon it, my dear pop, that as officer in our navy, he dawdled in Pea-jacket just to spy the weakness—no the richness of the land and landlords. Oh, my poor paps, what will they do to you, anyway?"

"They dare do nothing," said olimash, though

"Silence among the prisoners there!" thundered the captain, through his speaking trumpet, whether he was Noxem or his "double." Ugh, the base deceiver" muttered Tollms but I knew it was bosh that he was nobody, all the time—hang him for so much pretence!"

Mavis smiled, for she had not thought there was much pretence in Fremont's addresses to her.

"Say, poppy, if you were to apply to him in the bland manner, which is your true one, he might re duce your ransom—hold you at a low rate."
"Hold me at a low rate, the jackanapes! Do you suppose I would pay even a bogus ransom in a moci war? in drafts on the East River sandbank, eh? He let me off lightly? the masquerader!" stormed the millionaire, though in bated breath, which made him purple in the gills. "If he be a navy officer, I will never let up on him. "My dear, carrying a gentleman a hundred miles out to sea, is carrying the joke too far."

"A hundred miles" squeaked poor Stubton, clinging to a smoke stack guy like a shirt hung up to dry, so limp was he. "And this day I was to be at the annual dinner of the Nobby British Club-dir ner, oh, mercy !" and he retired to the side where he admired the phosphoresence.

"Heads up," whispered Tollmash, with sudde determination, repressing an inclination to imitate his protege in all respects, "I am ashamed of you want of backbone. If you would only throw off ——"

"Jerusalem, don't say throw—ugh!"
"Be a man! Be a man of money—you must have some cash like me-we must be known and our notes hold good. We will assert the power which men of our solid standing exercise over common folks." SAMUEL H. HAYNES takes exception to the statement that the late Mile. Zulleia was the first female aerialist to do the feat known as "The Leap for Life" in this country. Mr. Haynes is a retired professional, and is now connected with The Chicago Daily News. His explanation is interesting, and says: "In October, 1868, Mr. Jarrett, of Jarrett & Palmer, managers of Niblo's Garden, was at London, Eng., engaging people for the opening of Tammany Hall. I was then working with a lady under the team name of 'The Sanyeahs.' We were engaged by Mr. Jarrett and arrived in New York in November, 1868. Tammany Hall was not ready for opening, so, in company with Z. Maill's Pantomime Co., a ballet, Alice Harrison and others, Mr. Jarrett took the company to the Front Street Theatre, Baltimore, for one week, and then to the Holliday Street Theatre, in the same city, for two weeks. The company returned intact to New York, with the exception of the Sanyeahs, who were sublet to Robert Fox, of Philadelphia, for two weeks—the week before Christmas and Christmas week—and then returned to New York for the opening of Tammany Hall. The Sanyeahs, therefore, claim to have performed 'The Leap for Life' at Tammany Hall and the theates named before Zulleia ever came to this country. Our performance consisted of the lying rings, finishing with a leap, and we were the first gymnasts to appear at Tammany Hall. Zulleia came to this country, it think, with Ventini, under the name of Zulleia and Ventini, and, although she may have practised with the Leopold Bros, she never appeared in public with them. Zulleia came to this country under the following circumstances: i was engaged for six months with Jarrett & Palmer, but was only with them about nine weeks, having a misunderstanding with Leonard Grover, the Tammany manager. I quit suddenly, and Mr. Jarrett cabled to A. Maynard, London theatrical agent, to send a female gymnast over at once. Ventini was in Maynard's office when the message arrived and was read alond, and at once took in the situation.

Newark.—There was a pleasant bustle about the entrance of Miner's Theatre last week, which resulted in a good house each night, and Stuart Robson enjoyed a successful engagement. This week promises to be a remarkable one in a business way. The Katherine Germaine Diera Co. make their first appearance here, and, judging from the wale, the promised treat will receive tuil attention. The house was filled on the opening night, Oct. 10. "Dr. Bill" comes week of 17.

Jacobs: —The audiences that saw Edwin Arden in "Bazle's Nest" last week we have another popular senation in "The Fire Patrol." which brought out a good house 10. Coming 17 and week, "The Bottom of the sea."

Helena.—At Ming's Opera House, Sol Smith Russell canceled the last night of his engagement kept. 30, on account of sickness. Mr. Russell was hardly able to give the performance 30, but did so in deference to the wishes of his friends here. The house was filled to its capacity at an advance of fifty per cent in prices. "A Poor Relation" was the bill. Mr. Russell was called before the curtain and given an ovation. The house for the followings night as almost sold out for "A Peace-ful Valley. "Little Tippett" gave a fine performance to good sized audiences Oct. 5.4. "The Still Alarm" it.

11. [2] COLINGEN THEATHE,—Girard and Hayden were the only new faces this week. "The Devil's Compact," with Will G. Baker in the leading role, and the stock supporting. Hillyer and Ballinger, Lillie Wilson, Hattle Day, Verona Carroll, Plora Wheeler, Minnie Lee, May Wonderly, Piorence Passanii and Nick Williams hold over 19.

WORLD SE PLAYERS

— The "Elysium" Co. has disbanded. The play was presented at Philadelphia Oct. 3, and after the performance Managers Nixon & Zimmerman ordered Manager Fleron to take his property out of the house, as they would rather close it than have the play presented the balance of the week. A member of the company who returned to this city last week, said that he understood Manager Win. Fleron had sold the scenery and properties, and would not attempt to go on with his tour.

— Sharpley's Lyceum Theatre Co. are enjoying a feast of good things. Business is uniformly sails-factory. Manager Ferguson, of Montgomery City, Mo., banqueted the company as the close of their engagement Sept. 23. Waldrip, Kreyer and Flesher celebrated their birthdays with a fine supper Oct 4, and the following day were made Knightsof Pythias at Canton, Mo.

— Jerrold Hemingway has joined Jessie Mae Hall's Co. to do Juveniles.

— Harriett Neville, or the Jessie Mae Hall Co., fell and broke her ankle at Goshen, Ind., Oct. 4.

— Iola Pomeroy has closed her tour until after the Presidential election.

— Arthur Dunn is engaged to open with Tompkins' "Babes in the Woods" Co. He will play one of the Babes.

— Ida Bell, whose portrait we give on our first page this week, is a well known and clever performer in burlesque, farce comedy and light opers. She has fulfilled many notable engagements during her cight or ten years' stage experience, having played with the Dixey "Adonia" Co., the New York Castno forces, Henderson's "Sinbad" Co., the "Dr. Bill" Co., etc.

— The Cathoun Opers Co. are reported to have stranded at Chicago.

— Joseph F. Wheelook retires from the "Friend" Co. on Oct. 15. Edmund D. Lyons will then resume his old role in that play.

— Etta Storms, formerly for four years with the Night Owls Co., has joined 'Eries from the "Friend" Co. on Oct. 15. Edmund D. Lyons will then resume his old role in that play.

— Etta Storms, formerly for four years with the Night Owls Co., has joined E. E. Rice's "1492" Co.

— Lorle Arnold has been engaged to pl

Cleveland, O., Oct. 12.

— Clara Coleman closed with the "Underground" Co. at Philadelphia Oct. 8. Grace Harper has taken her place.

— Emily Stowe Joined "The Waifs of New York" last week, replacing Sadie Stringham.

— J. E. Nichol has been engaged as musical director for Fanny Davenport.

— Basil West Joined "Mr. Potter of Texas" Oct. 7.

— "Bulls and Bears" (Radchiffe & Campbell's Co.) closed abruptly Oct. 8, at Baltimore, Md. Louise Calders, leading lady, attached the box office receipts, claiming two weeks' unpaid salary. The company assert that they were unjustly treated.

— "A Fair Rebel" (No. 2 Co.) "lays off" for three weeks, commencing Oct. 17.

— "A Fairal Gift." (J. E. Sullivan and Waiter D. Turner's Co.) closed hastily Oct. 10. The people are indignant, and complain of unpaid wages.

— "Mr. Potter of Texas" was booked to open this week at the Grand Opera House, Boston, but, having been bought off, the company will play one night stands instead.

— Adelaide Cushman, lately of James O'Neill's Co., goes with William H. Power in his new Irish play.

WARIETT OF STRELS!

Bentley" contains the following interesting items from Australia: "This country is laboring under a severe depression at present, and the theatres are suffering in consequence. The Theatre Royal and the Opera House, Melbourne, and the Criterion, Sydney, are closed for the first time since they were sydney, are closed for the first time since they were erected, during a regular season. The people are pressed for money, and patronize the cheap places of amusement and music halls, which are prospering. Dan Tracey, formerly of the well known American team, Devlin and Tracey, is running a ing. Dan Tracey, formerly of the well known American team, Devilin and Tracey, is running a hall at Sydney and another at Melbourne, and is doing nicely at both, as are the Cogill Bros. who came to the Colonies seven years ago with Emerson's Minatreis. They are the proprietors of St. George's Hall, Melbourne. Emerson & Wood's American Minstrels are doing well at the Garrick Theatre, Sydney. Billy Emerson gained a reception and scored a success. Geo. H. Wood was a different and new style of comedian for the people here, and did finely, as the Australians are very apt to perceive and appreciate talent. John J. Leonard, the clog dancer, and the World's Trio—queen, Slowe and Ryder—also scored heavily. The show was a hit, and despite the times promises to be a money winner. Bestile and Bentley, the American Hottentots, have recently arrived from South Africa with Harry Rickard's Co., and are showing at Melbourne in conjunction with the Cogill Bros. and Rexo and Reno, the contortionists, who came to this country with Selis Bros'. Circus, are at the Galety Theatre, Melbourne, but sail for Paris this month to accept engagement there. We have a great number of American performers here, others being the Ryans—Perry and Lulu—Billy Ackerman and wife, Sadler, of Morton and Sadler; Harry Crawford and others. The Australians always look to Americans for innovations in the way of the variety business. Wilson and Cameron, and Fields and Halsson left a favorable impression on the Colonials. We get Pie Cliffer Renone a month.

Philadelphia.-Last week was something like it. Large andiences were not, as heretofore this season, confined to one or two houses luckier than their neighbors, but were observed at the majority of the theatres. Perhaps the improvement in the character of attractions offered had something to do with this. If this be the secret, the current week ought to eahibit a layored attraction of prosperity, as several of the more layored attraction of prosperity, as several of the more layored attraction of prosperity, as everal of the more layored attraction of prosperity, as everal of the more layored attraction of prosperity, as every denoce of their approval last week. MEWYORK(ITY

Last Week's Doings .- In the past week's metropolitan theatricals the events of most concern were the entrance of John Drew as a star, and the return to the home stage of Augustin Daly's stock company. In these affairs the interest was both conjunctive and separate. There had been eager curiosity to know Mr. Drew's fate as a comedy curiosity to know Mr. Drew's fate as a comedy-luminary; and it may be said at once, without re-serve and without exaggeration, that he has made a very brilliant success. There were large and fash ionable audiences all the week at PALMER's. The Bisson-Carre-Clyde farce was declared to be the right thing, and indeedit has the correct proportions of polite comicality and inofensive frothiness calculated to make it popular with Broadway play-goers. Mr. Drew's work in it is quite in his old spirit, with perhaps a little added buoyancy, which is justifiable, now that he is no longer under severe restraint. The share of Maude Adams and Harry Harwood in the success of "The Masked Ball" must not be overlooked, nor is it possible to omit mention of the excellent stage management and the generally artistic ensemble. Manager Charles Frohman has assumed many liabilities for this season, as everybody knows; but the one in which Mr. Drew is conspicuous is surely safe in al-ways, alike for manager and for star..... Mr. Daly's ways, alike for manager and for star.....Mr. Daly's company, opening at Daly's on Thursday night, Oct. 6 (the house having been dark 3-5), came for-ward amid the customary and expected demonstra-tions of welcome from the usual palpitating and stylish audience. There were salvos of plaudits for Miss Rehan and for Mr. Lewis; and, though Mr. Drew was missed, it was a consolation, no doubt, to know that his new lines had fallen into pleasant places. For the inaugural play there was presented, and for the first time in English, a four act comedy, entitled "Little Miss Million," adapted by Mr. Daly from Dr. Oskar Blumenthal's German farce, Daly from Dr. Oskar Blumenthal's German larce, "Das Sweite Gesicht," which was originally acted on Sept. 18, 1890, at the Lessing Theatre, Berlin, where, we are bound to add, it falled promptly and decisively. The Daly revision transfers the locale to New York, gilds the personages and alters their language, and somewhat revises the motic. Otherwise the farce is close kin to a score of others familiar to Daly's audiences. We need only append the cast, and add that Arthur Bourchier on this oc the cast, and and that Arthur Bourchier of this de-casion made his debut in America, having been im-ported by Mr. Daly from London in hopes that he may fill the gap created by Mr. Drew's withdrawal: Rena Primrose, Ada Rehan; Beverley Primrose* Jas. Lewis; Ned Candid, Arthur Bourchier; Salem Doublepenny, Herbert Gresham; Venetia Primrose Adeliade Prince; John Guthry, Geo. Clarke; Tom Nerry, Sidney Herbert; Dickers, W. C. Sampson; Tibbetts, Wilfred Buckland; Mr. Pfresh, Wm. Gilbert.

.....The week at the AMBERG was interesting though it saw no novelties or debuts. On 3 there was a benefit for the Hamburg sufferers, at which the volunteers were Xaver Scharwenka, Therese Leithner, Maurice Morisson, Emil Fischer, Adolf Phillipp, August Walter, Anna Mesfert, Mrs. Riegg and others. On 4 Herr Morisson appeared as Hamlet, to the Ophelia of Fraulein Leithner. Hamlet, to the Ophelia of Fraulein Leithner. The bill 5 was the old play, "Marte Anne," and on 6 "Camille" was revived. On 7, "Die Memoiren des Teufels" was done, with Herr Dittrichstein in the lead. It was repeated 8..... The unchanged bills up to 8 were these: "Squatter Sovereignty" at HARRIGAN'S, "Sinbad" at the GARDEN, "A Trip to Chinatown" at HOYT'S MADISON SQUARE, "Jane" and Lottle Collins at the STANDARD, "The Face in the "Moonlight" at the ROGADWAY, "Candy" at the ROGADWAY, "Candy" at the UNION SQUARE, at the BROADWAY, "Candy" at the Union SQUARE, "The Black Crook" at the ACADEMY, "A Parlor Match" at the Bijou, "The Lost Paradise" at the Star, "A Fair Rebel" at the FOURTEENTH STREET, "Puritania" at the FIFTH AVENUE, Prof. Herrmann at Herrmann's and "Capt, Lettarbiair" at the Lyckum. R. B. Mantell finished his six weeks! engagement at Proctor's 8. A souvenir was given at the performance of "Wang" 3. Mabel Clark, a high kicking dancer, joined the Evans & Hoey Co. at the Bijou 7, and made a hit....."The Lost Para-dise" ended its fortnight at the Star 8, and on that date also "Sinbad" closed its long run at the Garden.
..... Variety held sway at the Casino, New Park,

TONY PASTOR'S and MINER'S BOWERY and EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRES, while Hebrew performances AVENUE THEATRES, while Hebrew performances continued uneventfully at the THALIA, ROUMANIA and EIGHTH STREET.......The week stands finished 8 were as appended: "The Police Patrol" at the GRAND OPERA HOUSE, "The Wide, Wide World" at the PROPLE'S, N. JUDGE GILDERSLEEVE, in the Superior Court Oct. 5, rendered a decision dismissing the com, plaints in the action brought by Alexander C. Lassen, to recover two penalties of $50 each from Albert Aronson, as treasurer of the New York Concert Co., because of the refusal of the treasurer and the company to permit him to inspect the stock books of the company. Mr. Lassen is a stockholder of the company. The directors of the Casino held a meeting 3, at which the affairs of the concern were discussed. There were present Rudolph Aronson, manager of the house; H. S. Mendelson, president of the board of directors; Alexander C. Lassen and Messrs. Kimball and Hamilton. As soon as the meeting was called to order Mr. Lassen drew attention to the fact that the treasurer had failed to send out the annual statement to the directors as he had been instructed. Albert Aronson is the treasurer of the company, but he failed to put in an appearance, or explain why the report had not been sent out. He could into be found in the house. The change of policy in the honse was discussed, and so were the finances of the company. It was finally decided to hold a meeting of the directors 14, when the business will be further considered, and some definite action taken.

THE list of unchanged bills at city theatres this week is as appended: "Squatter Sovereignty" at Harrigan's, "The Black Crook" at the Academy, "A Trip to Chinatown" at Hoyt's Madison Square, "Jane" and Lottle Collins at the Standard, "Capi. Sanderson, E. F. Collard, James J. Armstrong, Louis C. Behman, Robert A. Duncan and Dan Collver. The reception committee was headed by Edward Slevin, and included Nick Engel, Thos. S. Dare, Chas. E. Bray, Jas. Thompson, W. H. Olmstead, Elisha Gregory, Wm. Moulds, Fred Wilson, John J. Shannon, Aeis. A. Iasigi, Michael Noonan, Jas. A. Annable and Wm. West. Exalted Ruler James J. Armstrong, after Robert Recker's orchestra had capitally executed the descriptive overture, "A Circus Day Parade," made an appropriate address, in a few well chosen remarks, welcoming the numerous invited guests of New York Lodge. Hamilton and Glynn in their musical specialities were first heard, the most heartily applauded portion of their act being a very clever banjo solo. May Wentworth, who appeared by permission of Managers Sam Devere, was warmly applauded in her soprano songs. Harry Fisher gave one of his inimitable humorous recitations. C. B. Ward, by permission of Managers Thatcher & Sayers, displayed to advantage his tenor voice in several songs. Guibal and Greville, of the Eden Mosee, met with a cordial reception, the former exhibiting his skill in feats of magic and the latter showing her ability in a melange of second sight or mind reading. Brother Frank Mordaunt gave a patriotic recitation, entitled "America," and in response to a hearty encore delivered a humorons recitation, "A language propose of

Toxy Pastron's Theatre.—A tiptop "house bill" went into force Monday night, Oct. 10, and received liberal approval from a good sized audience. The performance began with Layman, a minic of exceptional shillty, popularly styled "The Man of 100 Faces." Then, in succession, Frank O'Brien made much fun, Heusted and Geyer danced and sang effectively, Billy Carter twanged his banjo and cracked jokes, Joseph J. Campbell and Maggie Evans did a nest comedy sketch, Sam Dearin showed what he could do with a lot of queer musical instruments, the Midgeleys gave some clever character bits, Capitola Forrest kicked up her heels and danced artistically, Allen and Rankin played catchy tunes on various kinds of musical instruments, Rice and Elmar iwisled and turned in all sorts of ways, J. W. Kelly sang a good assortment of comic and describite songs, and Hillion wound the entertainment with some excellent juggling and equilibristic feats. Next week, the Howard Atheneum Co.

EMIL THOMAS, the German comedian, made his American reappearance Oct. 10, at the Amberg

London Theatre.—Fields & Hanson's brandevilles, opened their first New York engagement Oct. 10. The company have been very appropriately named, and a first class entertainment is provided. They have played to very good business since their opening, and, as theatregoers readily recognize a good bill when they see one, Field & Hanson's season should be a continuance of success. On Monday, despite the outdoor attractions, in the shape of a big parade in the afternoon and fire works in the evening, a goodly number of the London's patrons found it preferable to witness the performance, and fair nouses resulted. The curtain rose on a comedy sketch, presented by Mitchell and Loraine, entitle. "The Bachelor and the Maid." Wim. Mitchell, as United States, and compensated them for their loyalty in coming to the show. Madge Heath, a correct impersonator of in Irish character woman, was heartily encored. Her brogue and actions class her with the best. "The Reporter," are old favorites, to dish of their turn. NIBLO'S was far from being full Oct. 10, when Lillian Lewis presented "Lady Lil." The company: W. A. Whitecar, Ivan Peronet, M. E. Helsey, L. Marston, Alex, Gisiko, G. R. Sprague, Paul Pearson, Chas. Harris, P. Gibbs, George R. Sprague, Henry Terris, Alexis Gisiko, Paul Pearson, Laura Almosnino, Fanny Barry, Florence Gerard and Lillian Lewis. Next week, "Current Cash" will receive lis first American presentation. The author is C. A. Clarke, who wrote "The Grip of Iron." J. Pitt Hardacre, of Manchester, was the original producer. Henry Lee, Chas. Erin Verner and Eleanor Morretti play prominent parts.

A FAIR SIZED AUDIENCE greeted Edwin Arden at the Win lasor Oct. 10, when he began a week's engagements. The many strong points in "Esgle's Nest," together with the good acting of the star, kept the house enthusiastic. The company: Edwin Arden, Frank Losee, W. H. Stuart, Harry Mack, J. P. Loughney, Harry Minnick, Wilton Rand, Jos. W. Holland, Robert Esstman, H. C. Graham, Della Sawyer, Marion Elmore, Mrs. Nellie A. Queen and Mrs. John C. Bunton. Next week, "The Wide, Wide World."

KOSTER & BIAL'S.—The Berats, duettists from the Casino, Paris, had been heralded to make their American debut here on Monday night, Oct. 10, but owing to the late arrival of their steamer they were forced to defer their appearance until 11. Indulgence was craved by the management for the disappointment, and the audience on the night of 10 went in for a full enjoyment of the well stocked programme. Marle Vanoni introduced some pretty new songs, and Amann, the mimic, had a fresh supply of characters. The other specialists on this week's bitl include Wood and Sheppard, comedians and musicians of recognized ability; Dorothy benning, serpentine dancer, and Madge Lessing, in her "Bow and Arrow" dance, which she introduces incidental to the burletta, "Robin Hood," now in its fifth week of success. Katherine B. Howe, contraito, is underlined specially for next week.

Miner's Elouth Avenue Theatre.—Harry W. Williams' Meteors, a truly gilt edged organization of vaudevillers, made their first city appearance this season on Monday night, Oct. 10. The company is exceptionally well balanced, and a good sized audience shook with laughter, yelled with delight, and stamped and clapped in approbation of the able specialists gathered from far and near by Manager Williams. The performance began most harmoniously with the Johnson Trio, two men and one woman, who sang a series of songs and ballads most effectively. They each possess a trained voice, sweet in tone and of considerable range, and in concert they blend admirably. The trio were repeatedly encored. Beliac and Aouda next performed some astounding feats in necromancy and equilibrium. Mile. Aouda's nerve balancing act won hearty and deserved applause. It is a wonderful trick. Placing an empty champagne bottle and a glass of wine on the top of her head she slowly works the bottle by nerve contraction to the back of her neck and then back to its original position. The Heeley Bros. found out that three years absence abroad had in no wise effaced their popularity here. Their acrobatic work was especially skillful, and the newness of their witticisms was positively refreshing. A word of commensation is particularly due them for their "business." which combined the charm of originality with the merit of clever execution. The sole newcomer on the bill, Marion Carr Lyon, a double voiced singer, next made her metropolitan debut. She sang a couple of sentimental song and Leland came stumping on with their crutches, and their acrobatic specialty, showing the possibilities of a pair of monopedes, called forth storms of approval. They are supple to a degree, and or past grand masters in the art of going it on one leg. They certainly turn their mishing to the best advantage, and in the most grotesque manner, too. Those rough and ready comedians, Haines and Vidocq, had a most enthusisatic reception. They are pronounced favorities and worthy ones, at that. The show closed with the absurdity entitled "Mishaps," in which the major portion of the company joined forces in producing a regular whirlwind of laughter. The executive staff of the company is: Henry W. Williams, proprietor; Geo. M. D. Walker, manager; Terry Ferguson, stage manager. Next week: Hart's Boston Novelty Co.

"The Strucgle of Lirey" was produced at the Grand Opera House, Oct. 10, when the attendance was good. William Stafford and Louise Crollus effectively impersonated the principal parts, while capital support was given by Edward J. Heron, Molle Revell, Ameila Bingham, Lloyd Melville, James Bevina, W. H. Sadler, Arthur Mercer, C. J. Vincent, C. D. Haines, Royce Alton, F. G. Hollis and S. L. Borst. "The White Squadron" will be given here week commencing It.

PROCTOR'S TWENTY-THIRD STREET THEATRE—"Ye Earlie Trouble," an addition to the not stinted list of American Revolution dramss, was introduced to the metropolis at this house on Oct. 10, in the presence of a good sized and quite cordial audience, who gave it the seal of popular success, and called the author, Henry Guy Carleton, before the curtain. The play was first acted at the Boston, Mass., husseum on Aug. 31, 1891, and had a fairly good run at that time. We then gave a synopsis of its plot, and referred to its merits and defects. It may be well to add that the latter are not few. The comedy element is febrile, and some of the characters do not breathe the air of ye old New Yorke. But in general Mr. Carleton's work is skillrul and strong. fits climacy and the

PLAYS AND THEIR PLOTS.

Old and New Material Used by Foreign and Native Dramatists.

"The Masked Ball."

A farcical comedy bearing the above title, and adapted by W. Clyde Fitch from the French of Alex. Bisson and Albert Carre, was done for the first time on any stage Sept. 19, at the Davidson Thebisson and alort Carre, was done for the first time on any stage Sept. 19, at the Davidson Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis., John Drew then making his debut as a star. The New York opening was at Palmer's, Oct. 3. M. Polard, a pharmacist at Grasse, on Rejon, Riviera, near Nice, wasted his time and substance experimenting with bees in a great scheme wherein he feeds his bees on the sweets of the poppy plant. Their honey will then bee anatural cough medicine. His patent medicine does not thrive until the arrival of a young doctor by name of Blondet, who takes lodgings with him and joins in the venture. Dr. Blondet three years before had been intrusted by his beest friend, Louis Martinot, with a commission to seek out Luzaune Bergomet with whom he had fallen deeply in love and sue for her hand. Blondet does so and falls in love at first sight. He sues for himself instead of his friend. His affection is returned and the match is made with the consent of the parents. Blondet writes his friend that the party was totally unfit for him and describes M. Bergomet, who is a sober, sedate citizen, as a toper, Madame as an ex chansonette singer and Luzaune as addicted to champagne. When the curtain rises Blondet has promised to take his wife to Nice, while she is dressing Martinot turns up. Blondet tries to get him out of the house, but ne has come for a long visit. To illustrate a story he is telling, Martinot puts on a mask. At this moment Mrs. Blondet appears, also en masque. Neither recognizes the other, and Blondet is reassured. To prevent further trouble, Blondet persuades his partner to take Mme. Blondet to her mother's, just beyond Nice, under the pretence that Martinot is a dangerous lunatic, intrusted to his care. Now Mone Poulard (Virginia Buchanan) is very jealous. When she learns of Lazaune's departure with M. Poulard she is wild, but Blondet is happy. Martinot and his old love meet. She accepts him as an escort instead of Poulard, who goes home distressed. He does not know what became of his partner's wife, and fears stre, Milwaukee, Wis., John Drew then making his Poulard has also determined to be revenged. After endless ridiculous situations, all parties get straightened out and the families reunite. The east: Dr. Paul Blondet, John Drew: Joseph Poulard (his partner), Harry Harwood; Louise Martinot, Harry old Russell; Monsieur Bergomet, C. Lesile Allen; Cassimere, Frank E. Lamb; Suzanne Blondet, Maude Adams; Mme. Poulard, Virginia Buchanan; Madelene Bergomet, Annie Adams; Rose, Lilly Florence.

"Dick Venables" ("Dartmoor").

Arthur Law's four act drama, "Dick Venables," was acted for the first time in America at the Queen's Theatre, Montreal, Can., Aug. 8. It was Queen's Theatre, Montreal, Can., Aug. 8. It was originally acted at the Shaftesbury, London, April 5, 1890. The title has since been changed to "Dartmoor." The plot is simple, and is developed in the first act. The story: Mrs. Lisle, nine years before the opening of the play, married Richard Venables, whem six months after she leaves on finding him to be a good for nothing. Dick goes to the bad, and is convicted for his share in certain "long firm" swindles. He is imprisoned in Dartmoor, from which he escapes and takes refuge at the house of his wife, who is now known as Mrs. Lisle. She consents to hide him, and he assumes the name of her seafaring brother, Capt. Kirby. In the next three acts we find Venables helping in the search for himself. He is at last betrayed by an old "pai," and rather than be taken wrests the revolver from the hand of his would be captor, and shoots himself.

Donnelly, received its initial performance at Stamford, Ct., Sept. 2. The sister of Aaron Meserole marries a young Englishman named Trenor, who, upon the plea that the marriage was illered under English law, deserts her shortly before the bady boy is born. She returns to America and dies in child-birth. Her brother determines to avenge her wrongs, and in order to reach England robs his employer. Meserole follows Trenor to the Continent, and reaches Naples soon after the Englishman has been drowned while yachting there. Trenor in the meantime had inherited his father's estate, which, at his sudden death, passes to the younger brother. The latter has married, and is the father of a boy of the same age as his dead brother's child. Meserole forms a plan to place his nephew in possession of the property by "beating the law at its own game." With this purpose in view he kidnaps the younger Trenor's babe, which is to be brought up as his sister's boy, Dick Noel, while the latter is reared at a private school, under the name of Paul Trenor. When the play opens, both boys are approaching manhood, and the time for Meserole to act has come. Each has run away and enlisted, and the scheming uncle has traced Paul to a Confederate camp. While searching him out, he unexpectedly discovers Dick Noel, who is a Union cavairyman, and has been taken prisoner as the result of a desperate charge. Meserole, in the hope of ending the life that threatens the success of his plan, causes an explosion, which wrecks the guard house. Dick is unhurt, but Paul, who has just received his discharge papers and pass through the lines, is apparently killed. Dick takes the prostrate man's papers, hat and coat, and escapes. He makes his way to his oid home, which adjoins a railway station, and there learns a portion of his history, but, before he can discover all, he is again confronted by Meserole, who calls upon him to surrender as an escaped prisoner of war. Arthur Kennedy, occurred Sept 3, at the Columbia, Boston. It was originally acted at the Strand, London, May 27, 1890. George Slob, a paper nanger, doesn't seem to be particularly in love with his or any other art that requires effort, physical, mental or otherwise. He gets the job of decorating the reception room of Gen. Singlesides, who hopes to be elected Mayor of Blueboro at the coming election, and with it the disentangling of two lovers' knots, and fighting shy of another, into which the machinations of the mother of a not sufficiently charming girl, based on misunderstandings as to himself, lead him. The main theme of the story deals with the family of Gen. Singlesides, consisting of his daughter, Hester, who has a strong prediction for anything or anybody that smacks of aristocracy, and an unstitued admiration for the laboring man. His ward, Flossie, who is ready to fall in love with any man whom her guardian may select, so long as his personality is pleasing, and regardless of his other qualifications or possessions. The general's sister, Mrs. Dexter, who, seeking a husband for her daughter, Louisa, and getting mixed on the identity of George Slob and his brother Bill, comes near making an awful misalliar ce, from which Slob is as ready to release her as she is to be free, so that it all ends happily. The leading sultor for Hester's hand is Sir Edward Strangeways, wi o, knowing his adored is so opposed to his tilles, wealth, etc., hits upon the plan of engaging to Slob as his assistant and wooing the girl of his choice in that guise. Hester is at once struck with the superior quality of Mr. Slob's bother and assistant, and winders at the decided difference in the makeup of George and Bill. Sir Edward gets carnest, and offers Hester cheese and bread, the diet he is forced to live upon, when she at once struck with the superior quality of Mr. Slob's bother and assistant, and winders at the decided difference in the makeup of George and Bill. "Gentleman Jack."

Athe Temple Opera House, Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 3, James J. Corbett made his debut as a star in the Atthe Temple Opera House, Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 3, James J. Corbett made his debut as a star in the first performance on any stage of Chas. T. Vincent's comedy drama, "Gentleman Jack." Briefly summarized, the play is as follows: 'Gentleman Jack." Royden is a bank clerk, and, incidentally, a Princeton student and crack athlete. He and the heavy villain, the son of Jack's employer, fall in love with the same girl. Jack's father is supposed to be dead, but he turns up in the shape of an ancient tramp and secures a menial occupation in the bank. The heavy villain learns of Jack's relationship to the old man and plots to ruin them both. He robs the bank and lays the safe key where the old man will be suspected. When the denouement comes Jack takes the blame on his own shoulders and is discharged. He becomes boxing instructor for the New York Athletic Club. Then the heavy villain sends to England for Charley Twitchell, the English champion, and Jack is badgered into a match. He is pressed for funds to bind the agreement. At the right moment his lady love appears and furnishes the financial sinews of the war and the play ends with Twitchell's defeat and the heavy villain's eternal disgrace. There are five acts in the play. The first scene is laid on the campus at Princeton. The jsecond is in the private rooms of the fat old banker for whom Jack is working. The third portrays the Madison Square roof garden. The fourth is a realistic training scene at Asbury Park, and the fifth shows the Olympic Club ring in New Orleans. The cast: Jack Roydon, James J. "Larry the Lord" is taken from an old Danish farce, from which several sdaptations have been made. "His Nibs the Baron" is evidently from the same source, as both plays are almost the same.

This three act farce is by Laurent Howard and Henry White, and was originally acted at Asbury This three act farce is by Laurent Howard and Heury White, and was originally acted at Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 15. It was played for the first time in New York at the Columbus, 22. An old gentlemen (Mr. Newrich) has moved to New York. His wife, very suspicious of all his actions, hires a man servant to watch his movements, but Mr. Newrich complicates matters by bribing the servant to wink at his little escapades and soothe Mrs. N.'s suspicions, an estimable lady with strong predilections to excel in everything among her neighbors, especially Mrs. Thompson—so much so that she buys six of whatever Mrs. Thompson buys one. Mrs. Newrich has two daughters, the elder of whom has "two strings to her beaux," and is undecided which to marry. The other daughter, the Kid, is always at hand, helping to complicate the courtship of her sister and the jealousy of her mother. The old man is quite taken by a number of ballet girls, and firts with them all at times, introducing them to his wife as Sunday school teachers. It is decided to go to Niagara to give Emily an opportunity to decide on a husband. After a long delay they reach their destination, only to find the same state of things exists there. One of the young men decides to go over the Falls in a barrel, but through a series of mishaps the old gentleman, chased by his wife, geta into the barrel and takes an involuntary trip. This decides the courtship by Emily's marrying one of the young men and the "Kid" the other. A reconciliation is effected between the old people on Mr. Newrich's promising to reform, and a general happy wind up of all difficulties takes place.

Tyrolean" received its first presentation. S. J. Simmons and Frank H. Barnard are the authors. The story hinges on the efforts of Mortimer Grey to secure the fortune of Louise Schwartz. Grey trusted by Louise's father, is left sole executor of his will and $500,000 is at stake. This is the sum that Louise is to receive on her legitimate birthday. The plan conceived by Grey is the abduction of the girl, and in after years a love match, in which he would figure as the groom, with the heiress for his bride. The heroine is stolen, but it is Richard Steele, an accomplice of Grey's, who makes the capture, Grey being wounded and Leo knocked senseless in the melee. The Widow Schwartz dies from the shock, while Leo devotes his tife to the recovery of his sister. Thirteen years later the curtain rises on Mortimer Grey home. Florence Grey, a Vassar girl, discovers her brother's secret and resolves to thwart his villainy. Leo, in the garb of a wandering musician, appears upon the seene. Unsuccessful as a lover, Grey tries to poison Louise. Foiled in that, he afterwards attempts to stab her. The locket Louise wears was the clew that led to her identity, and he recalls the mountain home in Tyrol to her mind by a lullaby of babyhod's days. Florence Grey's detective work is good, and she finds the missing will. All his viliaines unmasked, Grey fires at his sister, but the bullet finds lodgment in the body of Steele. The cast: Leo Schwartz, L. S. Wyman; Mortimer Grey, Wm. A. Tulley; Richard Steele, J. W. Forrest; Patrick O'Shea, Geo. F. McCabe; Mr. Byrnes, N. C. "Therese Raquin." This four act play, dramatized by Kyrle Bellew from Emil Zola's novel of the same title, was first This four act play, dramatized by Kyrle Bellew from Emil Zola's novel of the same title, was first acted in America Sept. 19, at the Globe Theatre, Boston, with this cast: Laurent, Kryle Bellew; Cammee, Mason Mitchell; Grivet, Mr. Ward; Michaud, Verner Clarges: Mmc. Raquin, Miss Vernon; Susanne, Miss Hudspeth; Therese Raquin, Mrs. Potter. Laurent, a portrait painter, loves Therese, Mmc. Raquin's hands me niece. Cammee, her son, a semi imbeclie, is the husband of Therese, and the latter comes to wish she were a widow, in order that she might be free to wed Laurent. At a picnic, shortly after, their boat is capsized and Cammee is drowned, Laurent being able, as the tale is afterward told, to rescue Therese. After this event Michaud makes the match which both the young people have been secretly longing for. They have, however, veiled their passion, and in this they have been aided by the gnawings of their horrid secret. Finally, however, the marriage takes place, but the ghost of the murdered Cammee hannts them on their wedning night, but for weeks the awful secret is kept and the paralyzed mother sits day after day and witnesses growing halred usurping the place of love in the breasts of the guilty two. Finally in the climax of the last act she masters her paralysis smittently to write "Therese and Laurent have"—but here her paisted hand falls. Then comes the end; quarrel between the guilty husband and wife over the flavor of the soup, mutual accusation of the murder before the silent witness, and then the wretched woman serzes a knife to rid herself of her husband at the moment he pours poison into the glass she drinks from, and death ends all.

"The Face in the Moonlight."

Charles Osborne's romantic melodrama of the above title was acted for the first time in America Aug. 22, at Bunalo, N. Y., with R. B. Mantell as the ang. 22 at Buffalo, N. Y., with R. B. Mantell as the star. Its first New York performance occurred 29, at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre. It was acted in England many years ago. The scene of the play is laid in France, in the period which intervened between the escape of Napoleon from Elba and his defeat at Waterloo. Rabat, a convicted felon, and Louis Munier, a prescribed Bonaparitis, accidentally fall into each other's company. The former, to shield himself from the treachery of Baudet, a spy, murders him. Lucill, who is on her way to Paris to meet her betrothed, Capt. Victor Ambrose, is an eye witness to the deed, and the extrodinary resemblance of Rabat to her lover causes her to believe that it is Victor who committed the crime. However, she marries him, though she cannot help showing a certain horror when he touches her. Victor is trying to discover the cause of this strange conduct on her part, when he is hastily summoned to his regiment in the royalist army. Upon the restoration of the empire, Louis Munier is made a General, and in that capacity he causes the arrest of both Victor and Rabat. Both are sentenced to be shot. Itabat defeats the ends of Justice by poisoning himself, but not before conressing to the marder of Baudet, which exonorates ressing to the murder of Baudet, which exonorates Victor. The likeness of the two men is accounted for, and the climax is brought about by news of the battle of Waterloo, which restores the Bourbans to the throne, and gives liberty and happiness to Victor.

"The Courting Campaign."

A story of love and politics, of conflict between personal desire and party or family duty, is told in "The Courting Campaign," produced at Putnam "The Courting Campaign," produced at Putnam-Music Hall, Saratoga, N. Y., July 25. It is by Albert M. Ilownes and Will R. Wilson. The element of love was supplied through the agency of a nice of Judge Betts and one of his young friends, who was put into candidacy against his will by the theependents. The humorous characters were the ilvely daughter of the Judge, in love with a silk slocking reformer of the old Twenty-first District type, who worked against her father, but earned her hand by forgetting to register, and by a jovial servant maid. Features of the play were the torchlight campaign procession and the receiving of returns at headquarters on election night.

In the latter she introduced a serpentine dance, and, in response to an encore she gave a representation of Lottle Collins in "Boom-de-ay."

"The Fencing Master."

This three act comic opera, the score by Reginald De Koven and the book by H. B. Smith, was sung De Koven and the book by H. B. Smith, was sung for the first time on any stage Sept. 26, at the Star Theaire, Buffalo, N. Y. The plot is thus outlined: Torquato has a daughter whom he has brought up as a son and taught to be an expert swordsman. He resigns and Francesca becomes fenning master to the Count. At this point Fortinio returns to Milan, of which he is the rightful duke. He knows Francesca as a boy, but is loved by her as a woman loves. Fortunio thinks himself in love with Filipps. The Duke sends him to Venice on a mission, hoping he will be killed. He goes because Filipps has gone there. She loves him, but is engaged. Fortunio is accompanied by Francesca, who plots to betray Fortunio and permit Filippa's lover to elope with her. She loves him, but is engaged. Fortunio her. She is discovered, and this discovery makes all well and everybody is married to the proper person. "Jerry."

This drama, in which J. W. Summers is starring, is erroneously claimed to be new. It is in reality "A Noble Outcast," which Mr. Summers first acted "A Noble Outcast," which Mr. Summers area acced in 1887, and in which, on Oct. 28, 1889 he made his English debut at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool. The plot betrays it still further to be a sort of rehash of "Under Two Flags," "Trodden Down," "The Inshavogue" and "Only a Woman's Heart." Under these circumstances a detailed synopsis is not called for. Most CLIPPER readers will easily guess at the incidents.

The difference of weight in the brains of men and women has long since been a source of deep interest to all who discourse of equality and rights. Those extra onness remain more or less a stumbling block to the unwary. Metaphysical justice refuses to regard them other than iniquitious. Yet certain structural differences escape such close scrutiny, no ably that of the knee.

The structure of the knee feminine constitutes in itself a permanent disability for many masculine pursuits. The knee joint in women is a sexual characteristic, as Dr. Ely Van De Warker long ago pointed out. Ylewed in front and extended, the jeint in but slight degree intercepts the gradual taper into the leg. Viewed in a semilexed position the joint forms a smooth, ovate spheroid. The reason of this lies in the smallness of the patella in front, and the narrowness of the articular surfaces of the tibia and femur, and which in man form the lateral prominences, and this is much-more perfect as part of a sustaining column.

Muscles designed to keep the body fixed upon the things in an erect position labor under the disadvantage of shortness of purchase, owing to the short distance—compared to that of man—between the crest of the fillum and the great trochanter. A man has a much longer purchase in the leverage existing between the trunk and extremities than a woman. The feminine foot, comparatively speaking is less able to sustain weight than that of man, owing to its shortness and the more delicate structure of the tarait and the metatarsus.

Women are not well constructed to stand many hours consecutively and every day. It is safe to after that they have instinctively avoided certain fields of skilled labor on purely anatomical grounds, in which the smaller quantity of brain substance proves less an adverse factor than the shallow pelvis, the peculiarity of the knee and the delicate nature of the foot. These, as parts of a sustaining column, undentably leave something to be desired. Even the right to be solidie

I answered it, naming my style of shooting. He then names just ane way; that is, according to United States army regulations, at 50 to 100 feet, with a 22 cal. rifle. I never heard of any such rules in the United States army. If Mr. Loris is not a quick or isney shot, why did he issue that challenge? I shall insist upon his shooting out one or more of my propositions, or else he must back out. He says he stands up and shoots like a man. Well, that I what he ought to do. He also in the west to shoot as he originally said he will not you anything in the way to prevent a match. He ought to take me up, at least, on my proposition to shoot at a mark. He seems to put a stress upon having me cover his forfeit. It is only business for me to know the conditions of a match before I post a forfeit, Now, in conclusion, I will say that Mr. Loris according to the healtenge, must either shoot or lay down his gun.

the flying half mile to 595,s., and flying three-quarters to im. 305,s. The day was warm and pleasant, the first of its kind for some time, but when Windle started for his mile there was a strong wind from the southwest. He had the advantage, however, of having two triplets to pace him, each taking him a half mile. The machines go faster and more skeadily than a single wheel, and can go well for half a mile where the others can only go a quarter.
Hilly Murphy, Wheeler and Campbell took Windle the first half, and Dorntge, Smith and Arnold the second, while E. A. Nelson also paced him on the homestretch. The quarter was ridden in 295,s., the half in 505,s., the three quarters in Im. 305,s., and the mile in 2m. 25,s. At the finish Windle was in good shape and came in close to the triplet. Referee, A. O. Sinclair; timers, C. T. Shean, Jamea

Military vs. Bicyclers.

R. T. Barton, of Winchester, Va., recently read a paper before the Virginia Historical Society, entitled "The First Election of Washington to the Virginia House of Burgesses." From this it appears that political methods then did not greatly differ from those of the present day. In 1767 Washington was one of the present day. In 1767 Washington was one of the three candidates to represent Frederick County, Va., in the House of Burgesses.

Although he had recently achieved the distinction of having saved the remnant of Braddock's army from annihilation, Washington was not able to overcome the revengeful opposition of one Lindley, whose license to keep an ordinary had been opposed by the young colonel. Washington was badly beaten, receiving only 40 votes to the 271 and 270 votes cast for his opponents.

Nevertheless, the next year Washington again season of July 24, and Washington again season of July 24, and Washington post 30 votes, or 70 more than were cast for the next high est candidate. It is related that the future Fatner of his Country in this campaign had to foot a bill of election expenses of $195, the chief items of which were "a hog-head and a barrel of punch, thirty-five gallons of wine, forty-three gallons of strong cider, and dinner for his friends."

to the rule, for, during the progress of the competitions four world's records went by the board. Two of these fell to the stalwart weight handler, J. S. Mitchell, who improved his hammer throwing record to the tune of 145ft. ½in. and then sent the "fifty-six" 35ft. 6½in. Another grand performance was made in the running high jump by M. F. Sweeney, who cleared the bar handsomely at a height of 6ft. 4½in. thus beating the long standing record of W. Byrd Page, who years ago topped all performances on both sides of the Atlantic. The other performer who covered himself with glory was A. P. Schwaner, who cast Malcolm Ford's standing jump record of years ago in the shade by clearing a distance of 10ft. 9½in. E. W. Goff also did a magnificent performance in the running long jump, coming within half an inch of C. S. Reber's record, 23ft. 6½in. The other events were also most determinedly contested, and resulted in fine performances. The four mile scratch race was very disappointing, however, owing to the fact that both W. D. Day and T. P. Conneff stayed out of it, while E. C. Carter who had been suffering from lameness, was compelled to cry quits after running three miles and a half. E. W. Allen, of the N. Y. A. C., achieved a very creditable victory in the 300yds. run, defeating both W. C. Downs and Harry Jewett. The weather was very pleasant, quite warm, with hardly any wind, and the grounds were in the best of good condition. A Twelve Ciub League Next Year. A special meeting of the National League and American Association was held Oct. 4, in this city. The various clubs were represented as follow: New York, John B. Day and J. W. Spalding; Brooklyn, C. H. Byrne and F. A. Abell; Boston, A. H. Soden and W. H. Conant; Philadelphia, A. J. Reach and John I. Rogers; Washington, F. E. Elliott; Pittaburg, A. H. Brown; Cleveland, F. de H. Robison; Chicago, J. A. Hart; Louisville, G. A. Drexier; St. Louis, C. Von der Ahe; Cincinnati, J. T. Brush; Baltimore, H. R. Von der Horst. President N. E. Young was in the chair. The magnates went into seasion shortly after noon, when President Young called the meeting to order, and the subject of the American Association notes was at once taken up. The call accounts of the various clubs were gone over at length, and showed a somewhat peculiar state of affairs. It was found that seven of the twelve clubs drew more people in 1892 than they did in 1891, but eleven out of the twelve clubs to st mone, which was held to show that the expenses were ont of all proportion to the receipts, and also to indicate that salaries and other expenses must come down. The clubs which have not drawn well during the season were the New York, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago and Washington. The question of the $10,000 shortage on the notes due to the retired American Association clubs in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Columbus and Milwaukee, on Nov. I, was discussed an hour and a haif. It seemed to be the general opinion that it would be advisable to ask for an extension of time on the notes, and without coming to any definite agreement on the matter, the meeting adjourned for lunch. At the afternoon session an extension of time on the notes, and without coming to any definite agreement on the matter, the meeting adjourned for lunch. A., 25ft., 2 A foot race of one mile, upon which depended the title of champion of the Police Departments of this city and Brooklyn, came off at the grounds of the Union Athletic Club, in the latter city, on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 4, and was witnessed by a large crowd, made up in the large part of policemen. The contestants were Nicholas Duan, of Brooklyn, who had issued a challenge to any member of the New York force several months ago, which was accepted by Eugene Hickey. The latter was trained for the race by Joe Courtney, the English champion runner, and he proved much the better man when the pinch came, although Dunn was the favorite, and was heavily backed by his fellow coppers of the City of Churches. Hickey made the pace lively for a quarter of a mile, when Dunn went to the fore, where he remained a few moments; then Hickey rushed by him as though he had been standing still, and shortly afterwards the favorite gave up, satisfied that he had no chance with the metropolitan. The latter kept on, taking things leisurely, and finishing the distance in 5m. 10s.

In speaking about the protested game of Sept. 21, at Cleveland, Capt. Beckley, of the Pittsburg Club, says: "I didn't speak to Umpire Gaffney about finishing it. He called the game and we were packing up our bats ready to leave the grounds. It was too dark to see. Cleveland wanted the game called in the sixth. The collision between Childs and McAleer was all due to darkness. I never spoke to Tebeau about finishing the game. Gaffney went up to the grand stand and said: "Game called on account of darkness." Then the Cleveland gang buzzed around him and he changed his decision. We played the game under protest, and I'll bet it will never go to Cleveland."

Expectancy in re Herr Lasker's advent on American soil has reached such a pitch that even mere expectancy furnishes matter for interesting record. A correspondent of the NY.S. C. A.'s special organ provides the latest information, which puts every cless player on the qui ciw. There are two questions, he says, presented for an answer: these Vesti Herr Lasker beat our matters and the second of the second for an answer three Vesti Herr Lasker beat our matters and the second second to be metalet to hinder! Who have we that sets on to be metalet to hinder! Who have we that sets on to be much better than Blackburne, Gunsberg, etc.—it Steinlitz being out of the competition! Secondly—which one of our masters will be beat least of all? Now, that is more like a question and contains the very kernel that shall produce the beat outgrowth of the whole interest. Thanks to three eminent and generous sources, a peculiarly gradifying crystalization has been given to this pertinent inquiry.

At the recent successful housewarming dinner of the City Club, pronounced by a competent authority the most brilliant chess dinner ever enjoyed in this city, offered §100 as a prize for the American player who should make the beat socre vs. Herr Lasker during his senourn among us. known writer on Scottish sports and pastimes, W. McComble Smith, will be read with interest by American athletes, both professional and amateur: Entrow New York Cappers—Dear Sir: It has been a matter of regret to it see interested in athletic sports in Scotland that at none of the athletic meetings open to professional athletes is there level ground, and in few cases correct weights, so that the best Scottish athletes cannot bring forward their best performances as genuine records. While J. and W. Tait, D. Dinnie, J. Fleming, G. Davidson, K. McKrai, O. Dunny, G. H. Johnstone and others have made many splendid performances in throwing feats during the past forty years, yet with the Dully at Edinburgh, June 2. 1883, not a single feat performed by the foregoing athletes in Scotland will be found recorded among the list of athletic records by any accredited authorities in Great Britain or America. The writer felt this very much when writing his history of the Athletes and Athletic Sports of Scotland and saw that, unless an effort was made, such splendid performances are being done by G. H. Johnstone at hammer throwing and G. M. Kosa at throwing the Sch weight this Summer would as in the case of the above athletis, be valueless as authoritic records. He accordingly asked valueless as authoritic records. He accordingly asked valueless as authoritic records. A meeting of the delegates to the Athletic Bowling League was held in this city on Monday evening, Oct. 3, to make arrangements for the season soon to open. As the Staten Island Athletic Club was not represented, and they manifested no desire to retain their membership in the League, they were dropped and the Elizabeth Athletic Club were elected to fill the vacancy thus created. A motion was made to amend the rule of last year calling for two umpires, and to return to the old rule of only one umpire, was voted down, as was a motion allowing visiting teams the use of alieys from 7.30 to 8 o'clock of the evening of play. The representative of the Manhattan A. C. moved that the slot ball be barred in all league games, which was defeated, as it was shown that to adopt such a motion would debar some of the best players in the League. The arrangement of the season's schedule was entrusted to the executive committee, who are to meet this week and report back to a meeting of the delegates.

On the evening of Oct. 7 the American National Bowling Association elected the following officers: President, E. W. Spiller; vice president, C. F. Schmidt Jr.; treasurer, Jacob Leuly; secretary, F. W. Prior. It was decided that the coming tournament should be governed by the same rules and regulations as was that of last season. The schedule for the first seven nights is as follows: Oct. 17, West Shore, Monarchs and Americus; Oct. 18, Fedora, Nonparel and Peerless; Oct. 19, Golden Rod, Rosedale and Apollo; Oct. 20, Oriental, Glendale and Fifth Ward; Oct. 24, Jolly, Orchard and Atalanta; Oct. 25, Fidelia, Empire and Yonkers; Oct. 26, Progress, Gotham and Spartan.

The board of governors of the American Amateur Bowling Union met Oct. 6, in this city, there being a very good attendance. Four new clubs were admitted to membership, bringing the total membership in the Union to upwards of sixty clubs. It was decided to hold a sectional tourney, beginning early next month, the winners to compete in a final series, which will take place at A meeting of the delegates to the Athletic Bowling League was held in this city on Monday evening

At the Last merring of the lacrosse committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, that have been trying to straighten out matters in connection with the games for the championship of the metropolitan district, it was discovered that the Manhattan Athletic Club had played a professional in every game, and as all the other captains had pledged themselves not to protest against him, the committee decided to throw out all the games because of this dagrant violation of the rules Consequently there will be no metropolitan championship awarded this season, and the honor of battling for the championship of the country will be fought by the teams of the athletic club of the Schuyllill Navy, champions of the Atlantic Association, and the Lynn Lacrosse Club, champions of the New England Association.

THE FOOTBALL TEAMS of Harvard and Dartmouth Colleges sugaged in a match at Cambridge, Mass. on Oct. 1, when the visitors were badly whitewasted by the wearers of the crimson, the score standing 45 to 0. Dartmouth could at no time get nearth the Harvard goal posts than the twenty yard line, and they could not stem the heavy rush line of their adversaries.

THE GREAT MILITARY RACE

Between German and Austrian Officers Won by Austria.

The result of the great contest between officers of the German and Austrian armies, which com-menced on Oct. 1, is given in the following cable dispatches, from which it will be seen that a lieutenant of the Austrian contingent completed the distance first, while the forces of the Kaiser were led ant of the Austran configent consider were led by Prince Leopold.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Miklos, of the Austrian Army, one of the competitors in the long distance military race, which began ist. Saturday, arrived at the goal in the Templehof Field at 3.35 this morning. He left Vienna at 7.50 o'clock Saturday morning, and was therefore 3d. 1h. 45m. in traversing the distance. He was the first of the riders, either German or Austrian, to finish. The judges had been waiting at the Custom House, in the Templehof Field, since last night, as it was thought that perhaps some of the Austrian riders would arrive during the night. At daylight military officers and civilians began to gather at the goal, and by the time Lieutenant Miklos arrived the assemblage was large. The Austrian officer was given an entinusiastic welcome by the reception committee and the spectators. His ride had evidently been fast and furious, and both animal and rider seemed to be completely worn out. The lieutenant was lifted from his horse and conducted to the Custom House, and the horse that had so nobly done the heavy task imposed upon nim was cared for by willing hands.

to be completely worn out. The lieutenant was lifted from his horse and conducted to the Custom House, and the horse that had so nobly done the heavy task imposed upon him was cared for by willing hands.

The second Austrian officer to arrive at the German goal was Lieutenant Csavossy, who finished the ride at 11.10 A. M. Lieutenant Csavossy and Lieutenant Miklos started from the Austrian starting point together. Lieutenant Miklos, however, left his fellow starter behind, and beat him by 1h. 35m. to the Germangoal. Lieutenant Scherber was the third Austrian officer to arrive at the goal, coming in at 12.35 P. M. Both rider and horse were in good condition. The next arrival was a brother of Lieutenant Scherber, who came in at 6.10 P. M. He was followed by Captain Stoegl, who came in in a gallop, having covered the distance in 3d. 9h. 10m. Lieutenant Miklos rode 350 miles with thirteen hours' rest. He had a heavy fall 100 miles from Berlin. He sustained his horse with orandy. Thus far sixteen German and eighteen Austrian riders have broken down. Over 20,000,000 marks has been bet on the result. Heavy bets were made on Baron Erlanger, who was compelled to drop out of the race yesterday, because of his horse going lame, and as a consequence those who backed him are in a sorrowful mood.

Virnna, Oct. 4—Prince Leopold was the first of the German riders to arrive at Floriadorf, the Austrian terminus of the race. He had a heavy in the first of the German riders to arrive at Floriadorf, the Austrian terminus of the race. He had a heave to the fallow, and the was given a most hearty reception. His adjutant, Lieutenant Heyl, was a few seconds behind him. At 820 P. M. the third German to arrive, Captain von Tapperlaski, holds the thirteenth place, and first eled on the way. None of the Austrian officers held the first twelve best records. The German riders cleed on the way. None of the Austrian have reached Berlin, while only ten German have reached Berlin, while only ten German have arrived at Floriadorf. The horses of fi

High Jumping in France.

A dispatch from Rouen, France dated Oct. 2, reads: 'Twenty-six horses competed today in the world's championship leaping sweepstakes for 25,000 france and championship leaping sweepstakes for 25,000 francs and the gate receipts. All but two French horses cleared the loose bar at sixty-five inches. The bar was raised two inches twice and then one inch to seventy, at which height it was cleared only by the Freach horses Corset, Nancy, and New Moon, the Spanish horse Alpine and the English horses Chicago, Tallyho and Tasmania. New Moon, ridden by Furotta, and Tasmania, ridden by Stevenson, cleared the bar at seventy-four. Subsequently Tasmania on exhibition, cleared the bar at seventy-four. Subsequently Tasmania, on exhibition, cleared the bar at seventy-eight inches." Without the presence of Mme. Maranette's celebrated horse Filemaker, which made a record of 7ft. 33sin. at Chicago, Ill., last year, this competition could not have been for the championship of the world.

The Bostons made a clean record against the Bal-timores by winning their twelfth consecutive game. Two games of the second series were postponed by rain and will not be played off.

Two games of the second series were postponed by rain and will not be played off.

The New Yorks and Brooklyns are tied in their series, each being credited with seven victories. The Brooklyns won four of the seven games played during the first season, and the New Yorks won a majority of the seven games during the second championship season.

Shugart says he will play no more with the Pittsburg Club. Cargo, a local amateur, took Shugart's place at short stop in the game with the Chicago Club Oct. 7, and had four costly errors.

McCarthy is the only one of the Boston team who has taken part in every championship game thus far played this season.

The Pittaburg Club officials announce that they have no intention of releasing players to save salaries after Oct. 15, and will not think of the step if the team plays good ball. Treasurer Brown declares that he heard of no resolution of the kind being passed at the meeting of the National League and American Association recently held in this city. Glassoock, the well known short stop, late of the St. Lonis Club, is reported as having on Oct. 7 wired President Young, of the National League and American Association, for permission to sign with the Chicago Club.

It is said that the Philadelphia Club received less than $75 for its share of the gate receipts for the American Association, for permission to sign with the Chicago Citub.

It is said that the Philadelphia Ciub received less than $75 for its share of the gate receipts for the two championship games its team played Oct. 6, at Boston, and the Baltimore Ciub received only $31 for its share of the receipts at the championship contest Oct. 4, in the same city.

The St. Louis Club has released all of its team, with the exception of Briggs, Camps and Genins, by serving the usual ten days' notice. The three exceptions were signed recently at a low salary for the remainder of the season. The Louisville and other clubs are expected to follow suit. The Boston and Cleveland teams are alone excepted so that they can play their deciding championship series.

The Pittsburgs protested a championship game

The Pittaburgs protested a championalip game played Sept. 21, at Cleveland, but it has been decided in favor of the home team. The score of the game in question was 3 to 2 in favor of the Cleveland team.

John J. Burdock, the veteran second baseman, will be tendered a benefit. The game will be played Oct. 14, at Washington Park, Brooklyn.

Pitcher Fanning, formerly of Brooklyn, has been released by the San Francisco Club, for a violation of the club's rules.

The Detroit Athletic Club's team scored another victory over the team of the Schuylkill Navy Club, Oct. 6, at Philadelphia, the final figures being 13 to 11. No fewer than twenty-nine safe hits were made in the game, if which the Detroit team secured sixteen, including a home run, two triples, and a double bagger.

teen, including a nome run, two triples, and a double bagger.

The Baltimore Club served a ten days' notice of release on each of its players Oct. 6. It is believed that this step has been taken for the purpose of avoiding paying the players the two weeks' salary after the championship season ends on Oct. 15.

In October, 1891, William F. Dahlen, now of the Chicago Club, signed to play with the Milwaukee Club for $3.09 salary and a bonus of $500. He got the latter, and, signing with the Chicago Club, never played with the Milwaukee Sub for the soot, claiming he had obtained it under false pretenses. Dahlen made the defense that the Milwaukee Cub for the $500, claiming he had obtained it under false pretenses. Dahlen made the defense that the Milwaukee Cub entered a denial of Dahlen's statement, and declared the $500 was obtained under the false pretense that Dahlen did not belong to any other club. Judge Brentano, on Oct. 3, at Chicago, decided in favor of Milwaukee, and entered judgment for $500 against Dahlen.

Cleveland vs. Cincinnati.

The Cincinnatis were unable to make a run in the five innings to which the game was limited on account of very cold weather Oct. 5, at Cleveland. Captain Comiskey asked the umpire to call the game at the end of the fifth inning. Young was batted only for five scattering singles, and received perfect support, a great catch by McAleer cutting off the only chance the visitors had to score. Only one hundred spectators were present.

Wilbert Robinson, whose picture is above given, is the weil known catcher of the Baltimore Club, of is the well known catcher of the Baltimore Club, of the National League and American Association. He was born June 29, 1864, at Hudson, Mass., where he first played with amateur teams. His first engagement was in 1884, when he caught for a professional team that then represented Hudson, and he gained considerable renown in that position, his throwing to the bases being very swift and accurate, and making base stealing a difficult matter. The season of 1885 found him with the Haverhill Club, of the Eastern New England League, and he took part that year in seventy-three championship games, ranking well up in the official averages both as a catcher and a batsman. It was while with that club that Robinson's brilliant work behind the bat first attracted attention, and he received many fisatering offers for his services. He finally accepted an engagement for 1886 with the Athletic Club, of the in no fewer than eighty-seven championship games, in sixty-two of which he filled the position of catcher. Robinson's good all around work that year earned a re-engagement, and he caught for the Athletic Club in a majority of its championship games during the next three and one-half seasons. During the season of 1890 the Athletic Club became financially embarrassed, and was finally obliged to disband, and Robinson then went to the Baltimore Club, of the same association, with which he has since remained. Besides be ing a fine catcher, Robinson is a reliable and hard hitting batsman and a good base runner. One of his most noteworthy batting feats was in a championship game with the St. Louis team, June 10, 1892, at Baltimore, he then making the remarkable record of seven successive safe hits, including a double bagger, in his seven times at the bat, although he scored only once. in no fewer than eighty-seven championship games burg, the Louisvilles then scoring the deciding victory of the second series after an exciting contest of ten innings. Ehret pitched affectively, holding the visitors down to four scattering safe hits. He was poorly supported, however, especially by Shugart, whose four errors in the third and tenth innings helped the Louisvilles to score six runs off only one safe hit. The Pittsburgs pounded Sanders hard, but his spiendid support saved the game, and kept the score down to five runs, four of which were earned. The home team had three men on bases in the tenth inning, when a single would have won the game, but Bauer forced Saugart out at second, and terminated the contest.

Boston vs. New York.

The fifth game of the second series was played Oct. 7, at Boston, the home team then winning for the third time. The Bostons batted King hard and often, McCarthy leading with four safe hits, a double, a triple and two home runs, scoring three runs ble, a triple and two home runs, scoring three runs himself and bringing in three more runs. Double baggers was also made by Long, Nash, Silvetts and Bennett. The New Yorks failed to bat Stivetts and were retired in their striking order except in the sixth inning, when Fuller and Lyons secured scratch singles. Fuller and Keeler excelled in fielding, accepting no fewer than eighteen chances. Both teams fielded sharply, the only error of the contest being charged to Fuller in the eighth inning.

THE RING.

Charley Mitchell in the Jug.

The ruffianly instincts of the boastful "boxing champion" of England, Charley Mitchell, asserte themselves once more early on the morning of Oct. 4, when he felled an old man named George Salvage, keeper of a lodging house in the Strand, London, Eng., to the ground with a blow that, it was feared, Eng., to the ground with a blow that, it was feared, had fractured the recipient's skull. A policeman arrested Mitchell and he was locked up at the Bow Street Station. On the 7th Mitchell was brought up on remand at the Bow Street Police Court to answer the charge. The evidence showed that Mitchell, who was standing in front of the lodging house with several men and women, assaulted Salvage as the latter emerged from the lodging nouse and felled him to the ground with a powerful blow. There was no reason whatever for the assault. The magistake before whom the case was heard told Mitchell that the class he belonged to was worthless and a menace to society, and sentenced him to two months' imprisonment at hard labor. The men belonging to Mitchell's set, who at first thought he would be discharged on the payment of a nominal fine, had become cognizant of the serious turn the affair had aken and had employed a leading barrister, Mr. Grain, to defend him. Under Mr. Grain's advice Mitchell dropped his pseudonym of Charles Smith and appeared under his own name. Pony Moore, his father in law, accompanied him to court.

Several convictions for assault were proved against Mitchell, and these were capped by Inspector Richards, of Scotland Yard, who testified that Mitchell had quarrelled with a man at the Criterion bar and had tried to stab him. He would have stabbed him had not the people standing around prevented him agistrate asked. Inspector Richards repiled: "Yes, he went for him with a knife."

Mitchell, who have stabbed with reas, jumped forhad fractured the recipient's skull. A policeman

"Keep quiet, Charley; don't say a word," said Fony Moore.

Micchell than subsided, and Inspector Richards proceeded with his testimony. He said he knew the prisoner as one of the most dangerous men in London. Mr. Grain pleaded that Mitchell had abandoned the profession of puglism. He said that the charge arose from his interfering to prevent advanteem man from being lit treated. He begged the magistrate to spare Mitchell the indignity of again placing him in the dock to stand trial. The Court then proceeded to sentence Mitchell, as above stated. In sentence hit the magistrate said he would nogive him the option of paying a fine, which his friends would pay, and which the prisoner would treat with contempt. When he had heard the santence Mitchell said. "Aren't you golg to hear my witnesses! If there is no one to speak for me I must speak for myself. Is this a british court of justice!"

The only reply the magistrate made was to say, "Remove that man."

Subsequently it was rumored that he had been released pending appeal in two sureties, who justified in £300 each. The announcement, however, was erroneous. His solicitor asked for the prisoner's immediate release, but the magistrate declined to accede to the request. He said that the police must report in the ordinary course. Mitchell was therefore removed to the Holloway Jall in the prison van.

Mitchell's counsel appealed his case, and on Oct. 10 Charley was released on bail, so that the distinguished culprit has deferred, for some time at least, taking lessons in the art of wool picking.

Austin Gibbons Fails to Fight.

London, Oct. 10.—A boxing contest at 1905, for a purie of £400, had been arranged to take place at the National Sporting Club tonight between Austin Gibbons, the American lightweight fighter, of Paterson, N. J., and Stanton Abbott, the well known English boxer. The puglistic reputation possessed by both men was the means of attracting a large crowd to the scene of the contest, and at the hour set for the boxing to begin the spacious amplitheastra of the National Club was compared to the scene of the contest, and at the hour set for the boxing to begin the spacious amplitheastra of the National Club was compared to the scene of the contest, and their disgust was deep and very prorating when Gibbons, who entered the ring fourteen pounds over the weight agreed upon, declined to fight, on the plea that he had been suddenly attacked with Illness and was unable to make a contest. Abbott appeared very anxious to have the bout and said that rather than have the match fall through he would box Gibbons even at the overweight, and as a further inducement offered to give Gibbons £150 out of the purse in the event of the latter being defeated.

In spite of these offers, however, Gibbons still refused to ont he gloves, retirerating his statement that the was in no condition to undergo the strain and punishment incident to a severe boxing contest. Abbott had trained at Brighton, and appeared to be in the pink of condition. Gibbons had prepared for the fight at the Beelive, Tottenham. He was accompanied by his brother Richard and his trainer, John P. Kerwin. Gibbons had prepared for the special purpose of meeting Abbott in the ring.

While in the ring Gibbons made a feeling speech, in which he explained to the really under the weather, and although the crowd was disappointed by his failure to take part in the contest, his explanations were generally received with favor. After a consultation the officials of the club decided to give £50 to Abbott to console him for losing the chance to secure the purse of £400 which had been pr LONDON, Oct. 10 .- A boxing contest at 130h, for a pure of £400, had been arranged to take place at the Nationa

Thursday night, Sept. 29, was the opening night of the Athletic Club's new amphitheatre at Butte, Mont., and about one thousand three hundred peo ple assembled to see a glove fight between Keogh and Nixon. When Nixon stepped into the ring it was evident to all that he was either drunk or drugged. After waiting about half an hour Keogh appeared, and he was received with hisses by the crowd. George Hopkins, the club's referee, called "Time!" and the pugs started in. It was seen that Nixon was in a hopeless condition when Keogh gave him a light tap which sent him to the ground. This sort of thing lasted eight rounds, when Nixon gave up the fight. A meeting of the directors was called the following night to settle the question of purse. It was decided not to allow either principal anything whatever, as some of the directors were informed that the whole thing was arranged by them to defrand the club. Coupons of all tickets sold for that fight are to be honored on Oct. 13, when Schultz and Young Dempsey will fight to a finish at the same place. The Law and Order League had Gerraghty arrested and tried on two different indictments, one for training for a prise fight and the other to keep peace. He was not convicted in either case, but the boom feel with mighty force on Get, the day before that the night, when it was anounced by Gerraghty's backers in fight, when it was anounced by Gerraghty's backers in fight, when it was anounced by Gerraghty's backers in fight, when it was anounced by Gerraghty's backers in fight, when it was anounced by Gerraghty's backers in fight, when it was a superindenced by his several trials, worry and overtraining. McHugh and his trainers, seconds and backers appeared on time at the decre of the opers house, which had not been opened. McHugh then went into a convenient grocery store, stripped and weight he has claimed the stakes, refusing to allow Gerraghty time to recover, or extend the time of the fight. The stakes are in the hands of Harry Weidon. Gerraghty is still a very sick man, and his physician says that he will not be able to be out for over two weeks." The McHugh-Gerraghty Match Off.

Fitzsimmons vs. Hall.

have cabled Hall regarding the matter and his reply will prove whether he has been in marriage in his professions of a yearning to try conclusions with "Fitz."

DAVE HOLLAND, on behalf of Peter Maher, has accepted the offer of the Coney Island Athletic Club to give a purse of $6.000 for a fight between Maher and Joe Goddard. Goddard, however, through his manager, declines to consider a purse of less than $7,500, which is too high a figure for the seaside club.

AQUATIC.

The America Cup.

Lord Dunraven has again challenged for the America Cup, his communication, embodying the challenge, having been received by the secretary of the New York Yacht Club, custodians of the trophy, last week. The contents have not been given to the public, and will not be until the club have considered the challenge, and decided whether to accept or not, at a special meeting to be held on Oct. 18. The general impression among yachtamen is that the noble lord will be found to have demanded certain alterations in the deed of gift governing contests for the cup that the club cannot agree to make, desirous though the members are for another international race. The dimensions clause has always been the bugbear with foreign yachtamen, but there are few members of the N. Y. Y. C. who are disposed to accede to the repeated demands that it be expunged, or at least materially modified, as they do not think that we should give challengers an advantage over our own yachtamen, but believe that all possible safeguards that are within reason, and do not tend to place foreign yachtamen at a disadvantage, should be thrown around the trophy which the trim built America took away from the entire Royal Yacht Squadron in 1851. It is stated that the yacht that Lord Dunraven contemplates sending over to try for the cup has been designed by C. L. Watson, designer of the Thistle. the New York Yacht Club, custodians of the trophy

Match Sailing Race.

The schooner yachts Vistor and Atlantic, of the Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht Club, sailed a match race Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht Citth, sailed a match race of over thirty miles, for a cup Band a bet of $100, Oct. 6. The course was from Larchmont to Eaton's Neck Buoy, thence to Stamford Light and back to the starting point, on Long island Sound, the distance being thirty-two and three-eighth miles. The Viator, being the smaller boat, received an allowance of eighteen minutes, but she was never in the race with the Atlantic, as will be seen by the following official summary:

AN INTERNATIONAL BIGHT OARED RACE took place on the Seine, at Paris, France, Oct. 6, between crews representing the Gerele de L'Aviron and the London' Rowing Club. The distance was two miles, and the race was rowed during a rain storm, being won by the French crew by a good length. The names of the winning crew are: M. J. Boudin (bow). M. McHenry, M. Demetre, M. F. Boudin, M. Delatre, M. Petit, M. P. Ousin, M. G. Cusin (stroke).

.... The celebrated horse tamer, Oscar R. Giesson, is announced to enter a twenty-four foot ring with three horses, noted for viciousness, at industrial Hall, Philadelphia, on the night of Oct. 17. The horses are Black Diamond, of Culpsville, Pa.; Crasy Mike, of Philadelphia, and Dan McCarthy. The Frofessor undertakes, for a stated purse of S60, to handle, bridle, saddle, harther than the second of the property of the Archive three has ever been saddled or harnessed. W. J. Gilmors, of the Arch Street Theatre, and Chas. Benton are interested parties.

KINGS OF MUSIC-

FOR ORIGINALITY,

NOVELTY and

STERLING MERIT

Acknowledged unrivaled and without a peer in the World.

In response to the many suggestions that for years have been made me to place before the foreign and American public The Representative Vaudeville Snow of the World, the undersigned finally decided to undertake it, and THREE YEARS AGO commenced contracting, as they could be secured, the half hundred famous features and artists that since its opening, Sept. 1, have ALREADY ESTABLISHED Fields & Hanson's Drawing Cards, THE STANDARD VAUDEVILLE SHOW OF AMERICA. The result of the undertaking has proven by the GREATLY increased receipts at EVERY house, at which the Drawing Cards have thus far appeared, that even at double the usual daily expenses, such an investment will (with the appropriate, and elaborate billing and neralding as has also been his policy), pay. He pledges to strengthen, if such a thing is possible, the attraction each succeding season. To the Foreign Agencies and Managers, to the Managers and Agencies of America, to the several Lathographing and Show Printing (also representative) houses, and lastly to the Theatre Managers who hold contracts for the Combination's appearance for three seasons to come, he tenders his sincere thanks for favors for which he is under obligation. To the public is offered indisputably an EXCELLENT show and THEIR good will, will be at all times deeply appreciated, Correspondence from ALL Foreign and American Artists, who can furnish proof of the HIGH merit of their acts at all times solicited and answered.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FIELDS. Permanent address, 19 Hunterdon St., Newark, N. J.
